The two chiefs are charged with conspiracy. The much talked-of circular in which Hoge is alleged to have requested Brotherhood men to hire themselves secretly to the "Q" road and then disable the engines, is said to be the basis of the charge against Hoge. Chairman Murphy is charged with being an accomplice.

General Manager Stone swore out the warrants last night and they were given to the officers to be served early this morning. Attorney Collier, of the "Q" road, said this morning that the prisioners would be arraigned before a justice and a continuance taken, as the company was not ready to push its case. He asserts, however, that the evidence in the possession of the company was conclusive.

Hoge and Murphy were taken before Justice R. H. White, but asked for a change of venue. Upon the prisoners being brought to Justice Lyon the railroad attorney demanded a continuance. The Justice was about to fix bail at $1,000 a piece, when the company's lawyers protested and after some pariey the amount was increased to $1,500 for each of the men. Bonds were promptly furnished and Messrs. Hoge and Murphy released until Saturday. Unlike the other strikers arrested they are arraigned under State, not Federal statutes. Their arrest was made under the recently he intimates, more docile under exenacted Merritt conspiracy law. If convicted the penalty is a term at hard labor in the penitentiary. Two other names were on the list with Hoge and Murphy for arrest-John J. Kelly and John S. McGillivary. A midnight consultation of the officers of the company led to the arrests. Two or three detectives, Manager Stone, Freight Agent Paul Morton and Attorney Collier were working all night on the evidence against the alleged conspirators and it was not until at an early hour this morning that they decided to arrest Hoge and Murphy. Then the little party broke up, the warrants him who so much as mentioned the subject were procured and the officials retired for of wages to an employer. Hence he did a few hours' rest. Then they arose to not complain. watch the result of their work.

The most sensational development in the alleged conspiracy is the confession of John J. Kelley and John H. McGillivary, clerks respectively to Chairman Hoge of the striking engineers' grievance committee and chairman of the firemen's committee, who were arrested this afternoon. Said Inspector Bonfield late to-night: "When arrested they sent for me. I went to see them at the armory, where they had been taken, first sending word to Mr. Stone that I presumed they wanted to talk. He came over, bringing attorney Collier with him. We consulted with them. They appeared to be very nice young men, intelligent and honest. They told us fully of their connection with the circular. Then, as the result of the conference, they wrote pleted, but understand that they settle of a doubt the authorship of the sal soda culars were sent to the different divisions inquiries as to its authenticity were received in numbers from chief engineers who doubted whether such a radical circular could be sent out by Hoge, and asking if it were genuine. TERRIBLE FLOODS.

Sudden and Alarming Rise of the Monongaheia River-Barges Swept Away and Other Property Destroyed.

PHTISBURGH, Pa. July 11 .- The freshet in the Monongahela river is almost unpredented and great damage has been done to the river craft and property all along the river to the head waters. The suddenness of the rise took the river men entirely unrespectively $10 and $8 permanently for awares and they were not prepared when their services. Each was required to sign the great volume of water burst upon them. Millions of feet of lumber, scores of coal craft, fences, outhouses and coal tipples have been floating down the swift current for the last eighteen hours. The greatest damage to river craft occurred between 1:30 o'clock this morning and daybreak. Shortly before two o'clock a large number of barges belonging to contract. The Polanders affirm that their Jenkins & Co. came down the river from employer was an agent of Charles Parsons, the second pool and struck the Smithfield of North Hampton. They were shipped to street bridge, the huge barges a Franklin County farmer who paid them turning end over end and breasting the towboat Rarnard in against the steamer Jacobs. Logs, barges and fuel boats were dashed against the piers of the bridge and snapped like twigs by the overwhelming force of the current. Half of one of Jenkins' boats lodged against the bottom just below the Smithfield street bridge and the water dashed over it, throwing spray high into the air, while the driftwood crushed and crackled over the wreck with the tem is enriched. He has been several years grinding noise which adds to the horrors

About fifteen minutes after the broken barges came down a number of pieces of wreckage floated past, in the middle of which a shanty boat was swept along with a light on board. The river men shouted and the whistles screamed to get an answer from any person who might be on the boat, but no one was on board unless the owners were on board and asleep as some of the river men thought. If so they were swept down to inevitable destruction. Later the steamer George Wood broke her moorings above the Tenth street bridge and came drifting down the river, but was finally caught and towed to safe harbor.

The ropes that held the half-sunken Cincinnati wharf boat, which the owners had been struggling for twelve hours to save, parted about this time and the lumbersome craft was quickly swept away. A few minutes later a lot of O'Neil's barges and twenty-six pieces belonging to Joseph Walton & Co. were cut from their moorings and carried down stream.

"Polish town," located along the bank of the Monongahela river between the foot of Twenty-second and South Twenty-fourth streets, was in a sorry plight to-day. There are nearly seventy-five shanty boats at that point occupied by over 150 families, aggregating a population of more than 500 people. All of these, with the exception of about a dozen families, camped out last night. Early yesterday morning the trouble began. All day men, women and children were busy pumping water out of the boats and removing their goods to places of safety. By night ten house boats had been sunk or capsized down the river. The families who moved House that on Thursday he would submit a out piled their goods along the Lake Erie motion for the appointment of a commis- railroad and then the men did the best they light of wood fires. Little children crawled under pieces of furniture and slept on in blissful ignorance of the flood and its incumbent cares.

At 10:39 o'clock this morning word was received that lock No. 4, located a short distance above Monongahela City, had been carried away by the strong current.

FATAL FLAMES.

Cremation of Men and Mules in a Wichita Stable.

WICHITA, Kan., July 12 .- Yesterday morning at 3:40 o'clock the North Main street stables of the Wichita Street Railway Company were discovered to be on fire and were soon in ashes. The night watchman was in the barn at the time, and of the three employes who slept in the building, Tobias Weile and William Gerke were both badly burned and removed to the pospital, and Gerke, it is thought, can not recover, as his head and shoulders are norribly burned. As he jumped from an apper window a passer by who gave the larm threw bim into the gutter and rollng him over extinguished the fire on his ourning clothing. An old employe of the company who had been engaged for a long time in greating the tracks on the curves and was known as Greaser Murphy, is said to have been in the burning building, but ne has not yet been found. He is also reported to have been on a drunk Tuesday and when in that condition he usually crawled into the hay loft and it is thought he perisled in the flames. There were only eighty-three mules in the barn at the time, the rest of the company's 300 being scattered in the other barns. Over forty of the mules were burned to death and ten more had to be shot. Almost all of the thirty that survive are so badly burned as to be entirely useless.

ABUSING A TIGER.

A Disgusted Hindoo Delivers a Philippie Against a Wounded Beast.

Comedy and tragedy go hand in hand in Hindoo tiger hunts. An amusing example of the former is given by a traveler. A tiger had been wounded, but although one of his hind legs was broken, it made its way into a patch of high grass, and hid there. Guided by the Bheels, the elephant entered the allowed the party to pass, and then sprang at one of the Bheels, "a little, hairy, bandy-legged man, more like a satyr than a human being.' The Bheel dashed to the nearest tree, and owing to the broken leg of the tiger, was able to climb out of reach. So Awfully Frightened.

A woman weighing about 215 pounds plunged wildly around in a frightfully dangerous manner on a crowded street the other day. She was evidently looking for some one, for she breathlessly gasped out:

"Charles! Oh, Charles! Where has he gone? Oh, Charles!" Charles had been carried forward by the crowd, and when he stopped a lamp post had hidden him from view.

When the big woman saw him she plunged forward, fell heavily on his thirteen-inch chest, crushing him against the lamp post and sobbed out: "Oh-Charley-my-dear-husband! I lost sight of you and I was so frightened at finding myself alone in this crowd! You mustn't let yourself be carried away from your little girly again! You know how timid I am! I'm so easily frightened-foolish child that I am "-Detroit Free Press

Cured of Malaria.

22 FLORIDA ST., ELIZABETH, N. J. }

I have been using Allcock's Ponous PLASTERS for the last five years. Some two years ago, after having been sick for upwards of six months with malaria, I found Having spent most of my money for medicine and medical advice, I thought to save expense I would use Allcock's Porous PLASTERS, two on the small of my back. one on the spleen or ague cake, and one on the pit of the stomach, just under the breastbone. I continued using the Plasters about thirty days, changing them every week. At the end of that time I was perfectly well, and have remained so ever since. GEORGE DIXON.

It can not truthfully be denied that the turlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., is doing an extensive business, both passenger and freight. Of the first named branch of and freight. Of the first named branch of its service the Chicago Herald recently said, in speaking of the occasion of the National Republican Convention: "The Burlington Road probably brought in more people than any other. Altogether it is estimated that from June 16 to 19, the period of the excursion rates, over 12,000 strangers came to Chicago over the Burlington." This was exclusive of suburban passengers and mostly in addition to its heavy regular passenger traffic. In receipts of live stock, the Union Stock Yards' Reports show the Burlington to be far in the lead. The average number of cars brought in by it during the first six months of the years 1886, 1887 and 1888 is 26,140; and the "number for the first half of the year 1888, notwithstanding the temporary depression caused by the recent great strike on its lines, was 24,425, or but little below the average. The latter figure also represents about 24 per cent. of the total number of cars, 102,413, brought to the Yards for the last half year, being more than six per cent. in excess of the receipts by any other receipts. than six per cent. in excess of the receipts by any other road.

VERY often the man who "boils with indignation" one day simmers with regret the next morning, especially if his wrath be put in cold type.—Baltimore American.

Its Grasp Relaxed

By Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, constipu-tion is succeeded by a regular habit of body. While this medicine is thorough, it does not while this medicine is thorough, it does not produce violent effects or griping. Dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervous weakness and kidney affections, are among the maladies to which it is also adapted. Wherever tried, on this continent and elsewhere, it shows its ability to expel the poison of malaria from the system.
